THINK...

Fishbourne Station was opened in 1906.

Can you think of things that have been invented since?

IMAGINE...

making this journey in Roman times. Without trains, how would people have travelled here?

LIST...

everything you saw on your train journey

FISHBOURNE STATION

Walking to Fishbourne Roman Palace from Fishbourne Station

The walk takes roughly 10 minutes to walk on flat pavements and you will need to cross a few roads. Fishbourne Station is an unmanned station which means there are no staff to help you.

Leave the station from either platform 1 or 2. Turn right onto Salthill Road and continue until you reach the traffic lights.

Using the pedestrian crossing, cross over to the left hand side of Salthill Road and continue onwards until you see the brown sign for the Roman Palace.

Follow in the direction of the sign and turn left onto Roman Way. Continue on Roman Way, passing Fishbourne Primary School on your left until you reach the Museum.

Top tips for travelling by train

- Plan your journey, check for delays or changes before you leave on the National Rail website: www.nationalrail.co.uk
- Keep your ticket safe
- Pay attention to any announcements at the station and on the train
- If you need help find a member of station staff or a Help Point

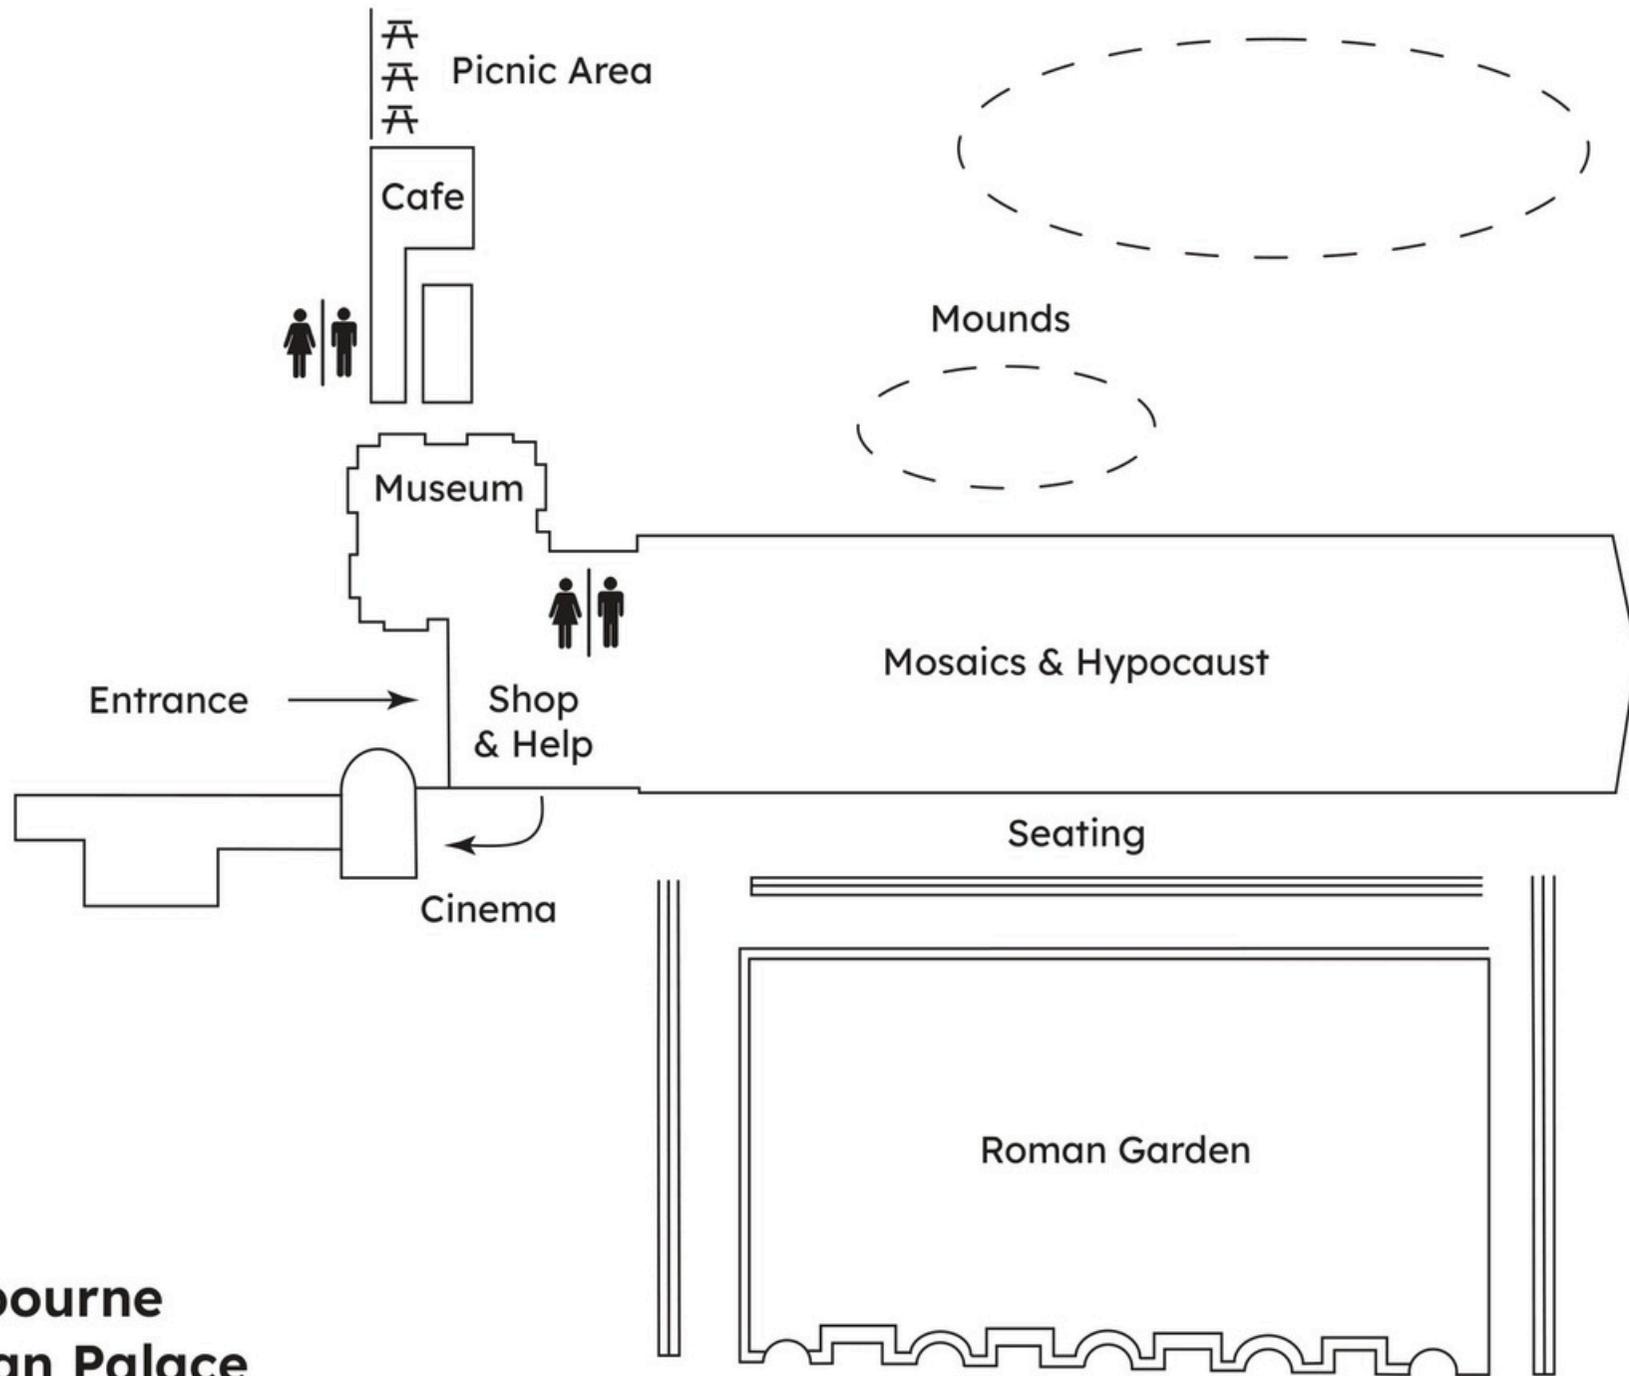

How you might like to use your map:

- Draw on your journey around the site
- Where was the thing you enjoyed most?

You may like to draw on your map or use the stickers included.
